

NEH

GRANT WRITING WORKSHOP

Presented by The University of Utah and the National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH), in partnership with Utah Humanities.

Agenda

National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH) grants strengthen teaching and learning in schools and colleges, facilitate research and original scholarship, provide opportunities for lifelong learning, preserve access to cultural and education resources, and strengthen the institutional base of the humanities.

NEH grants are typically awarded to cultural institutions such as museums, archives, libraries, colleges, universities, public television and radio stations, and to individual scholars.

Workshop activities include an overview of National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH) programs and special initiatives presented by Dr. Stefanie Walker, NEH Senior Program Officer, followed by a mock panel review session offering strategies for developing strong applications to the NEH.
